

HOLOCAUST SURVIVOR QUOTES STILL ECHO TODAY

Throughout the Education Center, the words of Holocaust survivors remain central, punctuating many of the informational panels.

“After we arrived, my mother and sisters were pushed away. I never saw them again.”

— David Schaecter, discussing how families were separated, deported or detained in camps

“I was liberated by the Russians on January 15, 1945. I think of that day as my birthday. Joy and relief were mixed with confusion, grief and uncertainty about the future.”

— Jack Waksal, reflecting on his liberation from the concentration camps

“I would have never imagined that in my lifetime these antisemitic incidents would happen in the United States.”

— Saul Blau, considering the impact of contemporary antisemitism

For further information, please contact: Sheri Zvi, Chief Executive Officer, at szvi@gmjf.org or 305.538.1673.